It takes a village to bring up a child, likewise accomplishing any meaningful work successfully requires the support of many people in different capacities. This master's thesis was no exception, coming especially in the wake of a long recovery from a car accident and major surgery.

First, I am extremely grateful for and to the many professionals who have walked with me along this journey at different times and in different capacities. I specifically want to thank Dr. Olli Tenovuo, Dr. Seppo Juvela, Dr. Leena Himanen, Dr. Pia Suvitie, Dr. Carita Edgren, Erkki Pitkänen, Ville Siitonen, Julie Githiri-Goko, anaesthesiologists, nurses as well as all other supporting staff without whose contribution this work would not have materialised.

I also want to thank friends who have walked with me before, during and after. The list includes but not limited to Maureen and Janne Salmi, Dr. Ndegwa Maina, Dr. Sach Gaya, Satu Gaya, Val Gaya, Purity Omar, Susan Kiama-Kalmari, Dr. Frederick Ahen, Professor Outi Salo-Ahen, Dr. Theresia Doh, Mary Domche, Sari-Johanna Kuittilo, Eva Guzdina, Pauline Nyawira, Albina Gakuru, Mona Syrjälä, Aila Koivumäki, Tuula and Maurice Marshalls, Emmanuel Antwi, Maarit and Paul Bowo, Paula Valkama, Tigist Dirbeba, Abayney Getachaw and Anne Oittinen. I am also grateful to Dr. Wanjiku Ng'ang'a, David Kilonzo, Judy Malu, Mercy Gachoka, Mercy Ndeche, Lucianna Thuo, Kirsi Nyrhinen, Pia Lind, Meheretu Dirbeba for the conversations, suggestions, encouragement and clarity.

I am extremely grateful for my supervisors Professor Gunilla Widén and Dr. Kristina Ericsson-Backa for their guidance, encouragement and support throughout this journey. Their tireless efforts, constructive feedback and sharp editing skills have been greatly appreciated. It has been an honour to learn from both of them. My heartfelt thanks to Dr. Nina Kivinen and Professor Tuomo Peltonen for their kindness, patience and contribution culminating in the timely completion of this journey.

My thesis would not have been possible without the women, who willingly participated in the study and trusted me with their stories. I honour your courage and gentle strength and life journeys marked by grace, resilience and hope.

I would also like to extend gratitude to Dr. Pia Sodergård, Disa Svenskberg, Heidi Honga, Sandra Rönnlöv, Pia Backman, Dr. Linda Nisula, Dr. Maria Lassén-Seger, Lilli

Caroline Muthoni

Kojo, Mesfin Abaya, Tommy Lahtinen, Rasmus Rantala, Yrsa Neuman and the whole team at Åbo Akademi University library for all their support.

Last but by no means least, I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude and appreciation to my family. To my Mom, Grace Wanjiru Kamau and sister Joy Nyambura for believing in me, praying for me, supporting and encouraging me when it felt like I could not go on. You have been my rock of strength and cheerleading squad. My nieces, Mable Wanjiru and Michelle Muthoni, thank you for your prayers, laughter, honest questions and for coping with my absence. You are my motivation. To my brothers Daniel, James, Michael and sister Diana, asante for welcoming, encouraging and challenging me to keep going. To Michael and James, thank you for showing me around and sharing your lives with me. To James, special thanks for setting up my computer so I could write with ease. To my Dad, Dr. Daniel Gatabaki, thank you for all the conversations and for speaking hard truths that I may not necessarily have wanted to, but needed to hear and for bringing much needed clarity and perspective. The journey continues. You are the best.

Above all to my Creator, the Almighty, be all the glory, for the gifts of life, good health, mental strength, peace of mind and so much more.
